ROOF STYLES

Whether you are converting an existing conservatory or building a brand new extension, we have a whole host of options to truly personalise your new space.

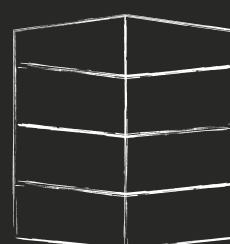

VICTORIAN

Typically features a bay-window style front with either 3 or 5 windows and a steep pitched roof with ornate ridge detail.

EDWARDIAN

...or Georgian. Square or rectangular in shape, this imposing style with a steep pitched roof allows you to maximise space while maintaining character.

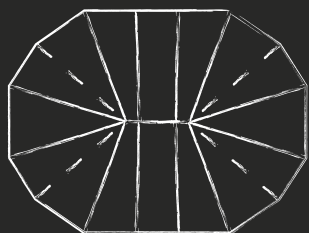

GABLE

The traditional apex roof combined with a fully glazed front elevation floods your room with natural light.

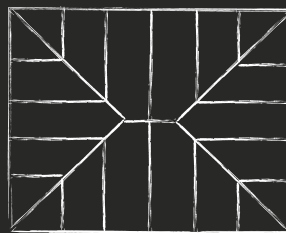

LEAN-TO

Perfect to make the most of your additional space! The shallower variable pitch, makes them ideal for homes with limited space under the eaves.

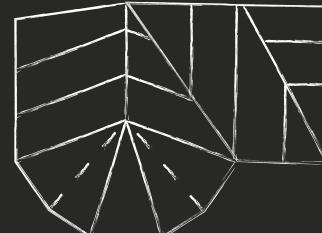

DOUBLE HIPPED VICTORIAN

The same as a Victorian, but imagine them pushed together! With 3 facets on either side and a steep pitched roof with ornate ridge detail.

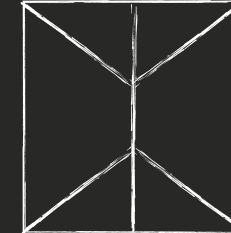

DOUBLE HIPPED EDWARDIAN

The same as an Edwardian but more rectangular in shape, still featuring a steep pitched roof allows you to maximise even more space.

COMBINATION

Choose a mix of styles – ideal to create two separate living areas in one. You're limited only by your imagination!

LANTERN

A combination of brick pillars with glass makes an elegant extension to any home. The flat roof with a glazed lantern allows for natural light and finishing touches such as spotlights or speakers.

GLAZED ROOF

Conservatories (or glazed extensions as they are often referred to) are far more advanced than they used to be.

Gone are the days of being too hot in summer and too cold in winter, leading to an unused neglected space. New glazing technology means your conservatory is no longer a greenhouse as the natural heat is retained and glare reflected.

We class a conservatory as having a glass roof that typically covers at least 75% of the overall roof area, and the walls are at least 50% glass.

Our bespoke glass roof system can be manufactured to any size and specification, to give you the utmost flexibility and footprint.

LANTERN ROOF

Making homes lighter and brighter!

Our lantern roof floods your home with natural light, perfect as part of a brand new extension to illuminate your living space, or transforming an old flat roof extension into a bright and beautiful space that can be used all year round. It also creates a stunning feature inside, adding height to a room, whilst still having a sleek, striking appearance outside.

You can also bring new life to conservatories or orangeries, combining our lantern with our solid roof to create a unique space to enjoy the sunlight like never before.

ORANGERY ROOF

An orangery is a great middle ground between a conservatory and extension, with their combination of brick pillars and glass. They are often used as a separate living space, whether a dining room, living room or playroom. Often people use them as an extension to their kitchens and make a huge family room.

We class an orangery as a home extension with a roof that has glass covering less than 75% of the area, and less than 50% of the total wall area is made up of brickwork. The feature brickwork really helps your new room to stand out, and the lantern roof allows natural light to spill in. The pelmet around the perimeter gives you the opportunity for those finishing touches such as spotlights or speakers. You can easily see why an orangery creates a seamless link between your home and garden.

Add classic French doors, space-saving sliding patio doors or bi-fold doors for uninterrupted garden views. Orangeries are the perfect way to get the true feel of an extension - without the cost.

SUSTAINABLE PROMISE

We take our responsibility to the planet very seriously. We use recycled and recyclable materials wherever quality is not compromised.

We source any PVCU used from a systems house, who in turn have taken huge strides to recycle and reuse. In fact, new windows and doors are made from up to 50% sustainable PVCu and additional components being 100% recyclable. We also have invested in our own glass crusher, enabling us to compact it and send it away to be recycled.
